

"The Plague Doctor" by Zachary Lopez

In times of great disease
it is the doctors who don long noses,
steep themselves in sandalwood,
and die anyway.
Sacrifice behind a mask.

I'll be the doctor, you be patient.

Center Yourself

Screenshot from Directional Pilgrim (passage 2)